HOPE TO MAKE UNION SMOKER HUGH SUCCESS

All Arrangements Complete for Tomorrow Night

FOR ALL UNIVERSITY

Council Sparing No Pains To Provide Excellent Program

Everything is ready to make the big smoker in the Union tomorrow night the biggest as well as the opening event of the season. The members of the Students' Council, with the able assistance of many of the other students, have been working overtime to have a snappy program for the evening, and to judge from the appearance of the program arranged, their efforts have met with great success.

The smoker is for everyone in the college, and it is the earnest desire of the men in charge that everyone should be present for the event. There is no doubt about having the men of the second, third, and fourth years out for the occasion, and the main appeal at the present time is to the new men, who are not yet well acquainted with the college and its ways.

The entertainment will be the equal, if not better than could be secured by paying a high price at some of the places of public amusement, and, at the same time, is giving the undergraduates a real chance to become well acquainted with the men who will be associated with them throughout the college term. A quick series of short and snappy events made up of the best of the talent at the local theatres this week and the entertainers of the city, and in the college will follow close on one another, and there should not be one dull moment from the beginning to the end of the affair.

A band will play some snappy and first rate music, Chub Lebaron and his group of entertainers and the Mandolin Club orchestra will provide plenty of music throughout the evening, and a group of singers and entertainers will give their best to make the evening a success, and that means that there will be little lacking from the students' viewpoint.

The Principal, Sir Arthur Currie, the Deans of the various faculties, the professors and the majority of the remaining members of the staff will be present, and some of them will have a few words to say to the men, while Coaches' Haughnessy, Van Wagner, and all of the leaders in student affairs will be present. There will be no speeches, in the usual sense of the word, but the men who will talk will have some interesting and important information to give to all of the students concerning the plans for the present season, and the part every student is expected to play in them.

The evening will commence with a huge rally in the campus where the band will lead the men, and they will then go to the Union to complete the program. The students themselves will be called upon to make up a good part of the program, for it is intended to spend a good part of the time singing the favorite college songs and giving the yells that are so well known all over the country. The rooters' leaders will be on hand to get the proceedings well in hand, and to give the freshman a good idea of what is to be expected later in the year, when the

CAFETERIA AT THE UNION IS NOW OPEN

Well Patronized By Student Body Yesterday

INNOVATIONS

Dansants in Union After Football Matches

The Union House Committee had some interesting announcements to make in regard to the management of the Union Cafeteria and of the Union during the coming session. An important innovation is to be introduced into the scale of prices at the cafeteria. Changes are to be made in the policy of the tuck shop in the lobby of the Union, while some minor alterations in the interior arrangements of the Union building.

The Cafeteria, which proved extremely popular last year, should receive an even greater measure of patronage this year than was vouchsafed the Union eating house in the past. Last year's policy of providing good meals at good prices is to be continued, but in addition to the regular forty-five cent dinner which was so well patronized last year, the committee has decided to provide a substantial meal at 35 cents, which it is hoped will prove attractive to many. It has not been found practical at present to open the dining room on the left of the lobby, as it is being used for the training table of the rugby teams. At a later stage, however, it is probable that an attempt will be made to utilize this room as a cafe with the assistance of student waiters; but for the present nothing definite has been decided in this matter.

The changes in the arrangements at the Union are not of the greatest importance. The cloak room to the left of the entrance has been replaced by an office for the conducting of club and undergraduate business, and a room on the lounge floor is being set apart as a retiring room, where one may retreat for the purpose of gaining the quiet necessary for study or writing. Some important changes are being made in the policy of the tuck shop, and its scope is being materially enlarged so that it will now be possible to purchase pipes, toilet articles, candy and many other necessities in the Union itself.

An interesting innovation in policy is being made by the house committee in a series of the dansants which it is proposed to hold in the Union after each of the big football matches. It has been long felt that some such opportunity should be afforded the student of showing his joy or forgetting his sorrow after victory or defeat, while at the same time meeting socially the visiting rooters from Queen's or Varsity.

Finally the Union House Committee wish to issue a word of warning. Last year several small articles were missed from the Union, someone in some instances going so far as to unscrew brass ash trays from the tables in the lounge. It is not expected that any such occurrence will be repeated this year, but steps have been taken to guard against any such contingency, and the most drastic steps will be taken against any offender.

PLANS FOR "ROOTING" ARE UNDER WAY

Rooters' Activities To Be Guided By New Head

MEETING SOON

Yells and Parodies by Talented Leaders

The McGill Rooters are to be heard again! And this year more fore! Bert Tremaine is in charge of the entire organization, while the cheer leading is being undertaken by three of the most able men in college. A definite line of action—something altogether new—has been worked out by the Students' Council to make the McGill Rooters one of the most efficient—certainly the noisiest—activities in the University.

It all has arisen from the graduation of those two famous leaders of the last couple of years—"Teedles" Thompson and Joe Wain.

No one was waiting with the assurance of previous experience to step into the vacant position. The Students' Council considered the entire matter and enquired particularly into the defects of the old system. It has been very difficult for two cheer leaders to make all arrangements for the rooters, and at the same time lead them, and it has taken a great amount of the time of these men.

This year all the weak points have been eradicated. A man has been placed in charge of the whole organization to make all the arrangements and to do all the planning and worrying—Bert Tremaine. The actual rooting is to be led by three men, a senior captain from one of the senior years, and two assistants from the lower years. Next year one of this year's assistants will be captain, and an experienced man always will be available to fill vacancies caused by graduation or other incidents.

McGill is to have the most appropriate list of songs and yells ever heard in Montreal. The executive is attending to that. Already the organization and details have been guaranteed a success. It just remains to the individual members of the association to enter into this new rooter's body with corresponding zest. The rooters' practices offer the greatest chance for the freshman to get the proper swing to the yells, so that when the big games come in football and hockey, he does not have to stand dumb when the crowd yells. The rooters last year had the pick of the seats for the games and the happy company of the R.V.C. Rooters' Club. Every chap in the University should know the yells—this year's yells—even the chap who buys two reserved seats in the grand stand wants to yell at times.

The first rooters' practice will be announced very shortly. Everybody is expected out, so that when that long band of red and white colour winds its way up University Street next week it will be longer—and its members louder—than ever before.

The executive of the Rooter's organization are anxious to hear from any one who has parodies, songs or yells that he thinks might take well. Any such person is asked to get into communication with Bert Tremaine at the first opportunity, either by meeting him in person at the Union, or by leaving a note there for him.

ERECTION OF GYM. EXPECTED SOON

Original Plans Subjected to Reconsideration, But Are Now Fully Complete

The plans and preparations for the new gymnasium have gone ahead rapidly, and in all probability the structure will be completed within the next year. For the past few years the work of the department of Physical Education has been greatly impeded by improper facilities. In order to overcome this every effort has been made to get the new building ready for occupation by next year.

Many difficulties have been hindering the work the worst being the selection of a location for the structure. The plans however were complete in August and turned over to various contractors for estimates. These plans show a building which if built without the proposed alterations should accommodate all of the departments connected with the work for quite a few years.

MONTREAL, OCTOBER 3, 1922

HOW ABOUT IT?

The age old question of the proper status of first year men at college is again before us. The Freshman constitutes a problem that demands judicious, but none the less firm, handling. McGill shares, with other universities, the annual friction and trepidation attendant upon the autumnal influx of new students; what McGill does not have in common with our sister universities is the, heretofore, aimless and hesitating manner in which this matter has been treated. In recent years we have borne "The Rush," the kidnapping of Freshmen and of the discomfort caused the outside public as inevitable accompaniments of adequate initiation by the Sophomores of their junior brothers. We have borne these without a murmur. Then we have cast our eyes around to regard the Freshman, the reluctant centre of the commotion, to distinguish him from his tormentors, and we have failed in our endeavour. The person whom we took at first to be one making his initial appearance on the Campus, on further inquiry turned out to be a Graduate studying along the lines of botanical research. We had been curious; we were now frankly discouraged.

It is deplorable, but it is a fact, that at McGill we have no means of recognizing the Freshman. The Freshman, likewise, has no identifying characteristic by which he may be made known to those others sitting at lectures for the first time. This is a circumstance that is pertinent to the whole student body, but one which has its adjustment delegated, by common consent, to the Sophomore years. Rectification lies with them. It is to our second year men that we must look for the innovation that is to alter this prevalent state of affairs. We would not urge them to go further in the actual initiation than have former years; we would not advocate any especial change in the accustomed "rush" method of introducing Freshmen to McGill, but we would crave the privilege of offering, with all deference, a suggestion: that this session the Sophomores take steps to make it compulsory for every Freshman to wear, for a certain period of a month or six weeks, a cap of suitable style, size and marking to effectually designate him as a first-year man to the rest of the college, and to the rest of his class. We would ask this, not only as an aid to the mass of McGill men, but as a convenience to the Freshman.

EDITORIAL NOTE

As is mentioned in the write-up to be found in this issue, on the "Pep Rally" and Smoker to be held in the Union tomorrow evening, there need be no fear on the part of the Freshman that the entertainment is planned with the intention of affording the Sophomores an opportunity of "rushing" the first year men. The one place a newcomer to these halls can rest content and secure from molestation by a senior class, will be at the Union, when the session's most pretentious Smoker will be given. This Smoker is planned particularly with the object of interesting Freshmen in college activity, and there is no ulterior motive prompting their actions. Sophomores, as well as Freshmen and upper-classmen will be present, a truce declared for the night, and a rousing evening assured for all who attend.

HOPE TO MAKE UNION SMOKER HIGH SUCCESS

 organized rooters' club gets well under way.

The full program will be announced tomorrow morning, as well as the time for meeting on the campus, and the opening of the evening in the Union. From present indications, the main trouble in conducting the smoker will be to find sufficient accommodation in the Union for the huge crowd that is expected to attend. The large hall in the upper part of the building will be used as well as the lounge room and other places on the second floor, and room will be found no matter how many present.

It is, of course, understood that the smoker will be given to the students entirely free of charge. The refreshments and smokes are also being given by the Students' Council, so that there should be nothing lacking. It is understood that the success of the event will be taken as an indication of the hopes for the other activities during the season, so that every man should get out and show the proper spirit.

There will be no "rushing." Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon upon this fact. Freshmen may rest absolutely easy as to their safety at the smoker. Their presence is necessary to the success of the evening, which is being arranged for them, and they are asked to turn out in full.

A young man was charged with loitering suspiciously at a railway station. The magistrate said sternly, "This lady says you tried to speak to her at the railway station."

"It was a mistake," pleaded the accused, "I was looking for my wife's young niece whom I've never seen, but who'd been described to me as a handsome young lady, with golden hair, well-cut features, fine complexion, perfect figure, beautifully dressed and—"

Dith a charming blush the principal witness against him interrupted. "I don't wish to prosecute the gentleman, sir," she said to the magistrate. "Anyone might have made the same mistake."

Careful Listeners.—"When the eyes are shut, the hearing becomes more acute," says a medical authority. We have noticed people trying this experiment in church.—London Opinion.

There will be a meeting of Science '23 Engineering Building at 1 p.m. to-day.

A Kansas farmer had just built a big barn. One day as he was setting off for town he told his two sons to cut a small hole in one of the sides so that the cat could get in or out at will.

The boys cut the hole just beside the big barn door, but when the farmer returned and saw it he was much displeased.

"Why can't I depend on you boys to do a single thing right!" he exclaimed angrily. "Don't you know that hole is in the wrong place?"

"Why?" asked the boys.

The farmer fairly snorted. Leaping from the buggy, he seized the barn door and swung it open, and of course it covered the aperture.

"Now, where is your cat-hole?" he shouted. "How in the name of sense can the cat get into the barn when the door's open?"

THE MUSKOKA CONFERENCE A FINE SUCCESS

Forty McGill Delegates Had Inspiring Week

WIDELY ATTENDED

Representatives From Nearly All Canadian Colleges Present

The second annual joint conference of the Student Christian Association which was held at Elgin House, Muskoka, from September the eighteenth to the twenty-fifth, has proved itself to be as successful as its predecessor of last year. Some forty delegates from McGill have returned to the university bringing with them the memory of a rare inspiration which will make itself felt as a powerful motive force behind the activities of the S.C.A. at McGill during the coming session.

Beautifully situated, one hundred and eighty miles north of Toronto on the shores of Lake Joseph in the chain of Muskoka lakes, Elgin House proved to be an ideal situation for a gathering of students from the chief eastern universities, such as that recently concluded. In addition to the advantage of its splendid situation, the conference house was equipped with all modern conveniences, and had excellent facilities for boating, swimming and tennis.

The universities chiefly represented at the conference were the three principal eastern colleges—McGill, Toronto 'Varsity and Queens, though a large delegation was present from Western University of London. Individual representatives had travelled from colleges as widely separated as the universities of Manitoba, Dalhousie, and British Columbia.

The delegation from McGill was under the leadership of Mr. J. G. Mackay. The offices of voting delegates were held by Miss Mary Fry and Jim Ross, while Bob Hall and H. R. C. Avison officiated on the regional committee.

All those from this university who had the privilege of going up to Muskoka felt keenly the influence of the spirit of enquiry and fellowship that made itself manifest as the week wore on. The daily program was an attractive one from the intellectual, spiritual and athletic viewpoint. Bible study groups and forums on subjects of international statesmanship were conducted during the mornings under the leadership of such well-known men as Canon Shatford, Dr. Sharman, Professor Hook, Dr. Roberts of the American Presbyterian Church, Mel. Staples, secretary of the U.F.O., Dr. Bland and others. The greater part of the afternoons was set aside for recreational or competitive athletics. In order to mitigate intercollegiate rivalry and to enable everyone to get acquainted with students from other colleges, the conference was divided into five tribes which entered into competition for athletic honours. A very successful regatta was held, at which very many interesting and amusing events were staged. Particularly popular were the crab race, the gunwhale race, the ladies' foursome, and the various swimming events. The ladies' canoe tilting tournament was watched with the greatest interest and applauded vociferously. Inter-tribal baseball was also a feature of the week in athletics, while the spring-board, the tennis courts and the canoes were made use of to the utmost.

Without a doubt, one of the features of the conference from the viewpoint of those from McGill was the series of delegation meetings which were held directly after the evening meal. At these the question of the influence of the conference upon the individual student and upon the work of the S. C. A. during the coming winter was freely discussed.

At these meetings, and at the evening addresses in the chapel it seemed that one approached closer to the meaning of the work that the S.C.A. is doing in our college, and caught some of the fire that will surely flame into action in some work of practical service at McGill this year.

THE WICKED WORM.

Cuthbert had been listening for half an hour to a lecture from his father on the evils of late nights and late risings in the morning.

"You will never amount to anything," said the father, "unless you turn over a new leaf. Remember, it's the early bird that catches the worm."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Cuthbert. "How about the worm? What did he get for turning out so early?"

"My son," replied the father, "that worm hadn't been to bed all night; he was on his way home."

The teacher had told her pupils to write a short essay about Lincoln, and one boy handed in the following:

"Abraham Lincoln was born on a bright summer day, the twelfth of February, 1809. He was born in a log cabin he had helped his father to build."

DIFFICULTIES OF REPORTER'S LIFE

Training on College Paper a Help

The editorial office of a big city daily is rather a bewildering place to the uninitiated. The clanging of different bells, the clatter of the typewriters, and the scurrying to and fro of the office boys, makes cool and logical thought almost an impossibility. To the man who is absolutely green at the game the first days, or perhaps weeks, he spends there are a slow and painful process of adjusting himself to his environment and of trying to understand just what the editor and his assistants want. Certain more or less clearly defined standards must be adhered to and if the "story" of the notice does not measure up to the requirements, the result is a short but merry trip for it into the W.P.B. Of course, the editor is a busy man, almost always he is doing two or three things at the same time, and he has no opportunity of telling the would-be reporter in detail just what he is expected to do and how he is to go about it. The beginner must learn these things by exercising his own wits, and by keeping his eyes and ears open.

If the budding journalist has had some experience on a college paper, that, naturally, will be of some help to him, and settling down to the work of a city daily. The work on a college publication is, of course, not so intensive nor exacting as that on a larger paper, but still, the very fact that a man has had some experience in picking out the salient parts of a speech or a football game and in putting his story into readable English, will help him considerably. Generally, it takes years to make a journalist, but training on a college daily forms an admirable first step toward this goal.

AMERICAN VIEW OF PUBLIC SCHOOL LIFE

Loud in Praise of English System of Education

An instructive sidelight upon the English Public School is shed by a Mr. Campbell in a recent issue of the "Landmark." In summing up his own experiences as a pupil at one of those schools he says:—

"Everybody seemed greatly surprised that I did not chew gum all the time and say, 'Wal, I guess.' I must admit, though, that I must have seemed just as foolish to them when I didn't know what the 'woolsack' was, and in Algebra class I had never heard of Euclid! Right here let me say that the standard seems to me to be much higher than in our schools at home. We may perhaps be a bit more advanced in the sciences, but the little chaps knew more about Latin and Maths. when they were in their prams than I ever hope to."

"The climax of my mottled school career came at the end of my first term and served to make me more or less unpleasantly notorious for having pulled a howler."

"It was 'Sports Day' and in the middle of the college field contests in high jumping, putting the shot, etc., were going on. Around the edge of the hollow square in which the contestants were carrying on was a crowd of proud parents and students. Suddenly a little man in a top-hat and black tail coat stepped out of the crowd and started to walk calmly from one side of the square to the other. It was then that I noticed his legs, which were unusually bowed, and seemed to be encased in some weird sort of gaiter with small black buttons, from his ankles right up till they disappeared under his 'tail' coat. Hanging down in front of these absurdly froglike legs was a tiny, black cloth apron. This is where I made the greatest 'faux pas' of my life. I actually thought that he was 'a paid entertainer,' and shrilled out at the top of my lungs to a friend across the square:

"Dho's the old frog in the topper?"

"There was a dead silence for what seemed like a century, during which time I could see with horror the slow colour rising in the venerable old man's kindly face; then a shocked voice hissed in my ear:

"Shut up, you fool! That's Archdeacon —, and one of the best sports livings!"

"If I were to go on telling how many times I made a fool of myself, these pages would be rambling into the hundreds. I should just like to say, however, by way of conclusion, that although our schools in America are good, I believe they miss something in not having the old traditions to live up to and the queer customs that make for real loyalty and 'esprit de corps.' Anyway, for real school life, give me an English Public School, and for a true sportsman and friend (once you have burrowed through his icy reserve) an English boy 'can't be beat,' as we Yankees say."

Simple.—"How can I keep my toes from going to sleep?"

"Don't let them turn in."—Purple Cow.

R.V.C. GRANTED A NEW CHARTER

Governors Will Be Those Of McGill

The following announcement communicated to the press by the office of the University will be of interest to the students of McGill:—

"Royal Victoria College will assume its separated identity and corporate status on August 10, when the first meeting of the Board of Governors will be held immediately previous to a regular meeting of the Board of Governors of McGill University. This meeting will be held in accordance with the provisions of the royal charter recently granted by the King at the request of Baroness Strathcona and Mount Royal, daughter of the founder of the college, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal.

The governors of the Royal Victoria College are those of McGill University. In both cases they are governors of the institutions as members of the Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning, the name under which their official acts are recorded. The chairman of the Board of Governors of the Royal Victoria College will be Dr. E. W. Beatty, K.C., chancellor of McGill University and president of the Royal Institution. The vice-chairman will be General Sir Arthur Currie, vice-chancellor of the University.

Other officers of McGill University who will probably hold the equivalent positions in Royal Victoria College are Dr. John Ross, honorary treasurer and chairman of the Finance Committee, and A. P. S. Glassco, secretary of the Royal Institution and Bursar of McGill University."

Mlle. TOUREN RETURNS FROM TRIP TO FRANCE

Mlle. Touren, assistant Professor of French, has returned to the University after a short visit to her home in France. She left for France in August on the completion of the French summer school, which was held in the Royal Victoria College during the month of July, and for which Mlle. Touren was in charge of the residence.

A recent graduate of the University, Miss Margaret B. Pickel, Arts '19, who has acted in the capacity of assistant in the Department of English, has been appointed to the resident staff of the Royal Victoria College. Another graduate, Miss Jenny B. Wisdom, Arts '07, of New Glasgow, N.S., and also a former resident student of the R. V. C. returns to McGill as a member of the staff of the Department of Social Service.

S. RUGBY GETS AWAY TO GREAT START

Syracuse Team Rolls Up Big Score

FAVORITES WIN

Penn Opens Season in New Stadium, Seating 55,000

Football in the States got away to a big start on Saturday. The season had been officially opened the week before, but only a few college teams were scheduled to play on that day, and it was not until the last week-end that the game really got under way. Syracuse, who will be host to the McGill team on November 11th, won its second game, when Muhlenberg was trampled on to the tune of 47-0. The fast, but light, team from Albion, Pa., was no match for the husky orange eleven, which was composed almost entirely of veterans. The team which met McGill in Montreal last fall was practically intact, with the exception of Thompson, the 200-pound guard, and Harry Herbert, star quarterback, who was largely responsible for the 13-0 victory of Syracuse over McGill. Herbert, it will be remembered, suffered a broken neck in the Colgate game last year, and it was a miracle that he pulled through. Although he has recovered nicely, his football days are over. Bowman, of last year's Freshman team, has replaced Herbert, and showed great flashes of speed; Kellogg, veteran fullback, also tore off some long runs, and Anderson, the brilliant line plunger, played his usual good game. The previous week, Syracuse defeated Hobart 28-7 in the opening game of the season.

University of Pennsylvania opened the season in its new stadium, with a seating capacity of 55,000. The Philadelphians got away to a good start by taking the better end of a 14-0 score from Franklin, and Marshall College, before a crowd of 30,000 persons, a record for an opening-day.

Harvard defeated Middlebury by the score of 20 to 0. But the Vermont visitors played the Crimson closer than the score would indicate. George Owen, veteran fullback, and captain of the hockey team, was largely responsible for the victory, he scored two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play, and performed brilliantly throughout. The third score came as the result of an intercepted pass and 75-yard run by Pfaffman, a substitute halfback.

Yale won the second game of the season on Saturday, the triumph being made in the first half against Carnegie Tech., who lost after a pretty second-half stand by a score of 13 to 0. Yale's first victory was a runaway from Bates College, Maine. The Eli backfield with Beckett calling signals, Captain Jordan, the line-plunger, and Neidlinger at the halfback positions, and Mallory at fullback, looks like the best in the country, but the Blue and White line is probably not up to the 1921 standard.

Princeton had very little trouble defeating Johns Hopkins University at Palmer Stadium, 30 to 0. The Orange and Black placed a comparatively inexperienced team on the field, and the lack of a competent field general to fill the boots of Don Laurie, last year's star quarterback, was quite apparent.

The only new rule introduced into American football this season, is the one regarding the scoring of the extra point after a touch-down. Instead of trying a placement kick, as was formerly the rule, the team scoring the touch-down is given the ball on the opponent's 5-yard line, and is allowed one play from scrimmage for the single point. They can try a line play, an end run or a forward pass, in an effort to cross the line, or an attempt at a field goal may be made. The latter method is almost invariably chosen, and consequently a consistent drop-kicker is a decided asset to any team.

Enthusiasm seems to be running high among American football enthusiasts, and the greatest year in the history of the gridiron is being looked forward to. No one team looms up above the rest, and with most of the eleven evenly matched, some interesting tussles can be expected.

FOOTBALL SQUAD IN LIGHT WORKOUT

All Players in Good Form Except Emo

The football candidates seem to have benefited considerably by their rest over Sunday, and the entire squad with the exception of Jack Emo, reported in good condition for yesterday's workout. Emo, who was seriously injured in the game between the first and second teams, had an X-ray taken of his shoulder, and it is feared that the bone is fractured. This will keep Jack out of the game for the rest of the season, and be a great loss to Shag.

Coach Shaughnessy did not drive his men very hard in yesterday's practice, but will probably give them plenty of hard work this afternoon. Jack Lewis, assistant to the McGill Mentor, took hold of the second and third teams. He has a number of promising performers under his charge, and it is quite easy to predict that the Red and White will be represented by strong Intermediate and Junior teams in the Intercollegiate League. The schedules for these two teams have not been announced, but each of them will probably be in on an attractive trip. The number of men trying for positions on these teams exceeds by far any that have turned out in previous years, and consequently, every man will have to fight to keep his position.

Teacher—"Now Dorothy, tell me how many bones are in your body."
Dorothy—"Two hundred and eight."
Teacher—"That's not right. There are only two hundred and seven."
Dorothy (with great delight)—"But I swallowed a fishbone this morning."

WATER POLO WILL START ON THURSDAY

Mr. Vernot Back as Coach

PRACTICE AT "Y"

Only Two of Last Year's Team Returns

The McGill University Swimming Club will once again start to train a team, in order to hold the intercollegiate water polo championship. In all probability the coach will again be Mr. Vernot, who has in the past shown himself to be the builder of the fastest and hardest playing teams in Eastern Canada. George Vernot will be in the water this year, and the Olympic star is a great addition to the badly broken McGill line up. Of last year stars, Laishley, Foss, Fiske and Parsons have all gone. This will be a big gap in the line-up, but fortunately the club is prepared for this, and has developed a lot of swimmers who they will be able to move up from the intermediate league teams, as well as several men who were second string men last year.

The club has secured the use of the Central Y.M.C.A. pool this year on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.15. The initial practice is to be held Thursday evening, which is an early start for this activity. There is also a meeting of men interested in swimming at the Union on Wednesday at 5.15.

Of the intermediate team and spares, Ross, Forsyth, Vickerson and Anson will probably fill in the vacant position. This leaves but a skeleton of an intermediate team, while the building up of a junior squad will present problem in itself.

The first city league game is the twentieth, and the McGill players will have to work to get into condition. George Vernot is, of course, in shape, as is Laidley, the other veterans of last year's battles, but the new men will have to be put through some fast work before developing into a real team.

Last year they scored a win in the intercollegiate series, and were second in the city league. The intermediates came through for a win in their section. It is possible that they may make another clean-up this year. They are all back, but, of course, some will go into the senior game. Of the swimming team, Paul Scott has left a vacancy and a lot of all around speed swimmers are needed.

With a good turn out, Mr. Vernot will in all probability develop another winning delegation, as has been his custom in the past.

A negro pastor was warming up to the climax of his sermon, and his auditors were waxing bored and more excited. "I wahns yer, O my congregashun," exclaimed the exhorter. "I kahns yer aginst de sin uv fightin'; I wahns yer aginst de sin uv whiskey drinkin', an' de sin of chicken robbin', an' I wahns yer, my breddern, aginst de sin uv melon stealin'." A devout worshipper in the back of the church jumped to his feet and snapped his fingers excitedly. "Whuffo! does yer, my brudder, 'r'ar u pan' snap yo' fingers when I speak of melon stealin'?" asked the preacher. "Kaze yo' jes' minds me where I lef' mah overcoat," replied the devout worshipper, as he hurried off.

A rather pompous-looking deacon in a city church was asked to take charge of a class of boys during the absence of the regular teacher. While endeavoring to impress on their young minds the importance of living a Christian life, the worthy dignitary, standing very erect and looking down upon his youthful audience, asked: "Why do people call me a Christian, children?" "Because they don't know you," quickly responded a bright-eyed little boy.

AN OYSTER STEW.

They used to say of the late Louis James that he was one of the greatest humorists and practical jokes in stage history. It is recounted of him that on a certain occasion, in one of the Shakespearean tragedies, having to shake hands with a brother tragedian, he left clutched inescapably in the latter's fist a fat, raw oyster, which the unfortunate individual was obliged to keep by him through the remainder of the scene.

LITTLE

A Steady Defence Man

OPPORTUNITIES OF WORK ON "DAILY"

Several Openings For Freshmen on Staff

Each year the McGill Daily takes onto its staff a number of new men, the greater portion of whom are Freshmen. This session there is room for some twenty additions to the staff, and any candidates who would care to try out for a position on the paper are advised to interview the Managing Editor as soon as possible. He will be found in the "Daily" office every day from one till two in the afternoon. For the information of those who may not be aware of the situation of the "Daily Sanctum," it might be mentioned that it is in the basement of the Union, and that the porter on the ground floor will direct any inquirer to it.

A reporter on the "Daily" is expected to aid in the editing of one issue during the week. This entails reporting to the Managing Editor on the noon of the day he, the reporter, has chosen to assist in the paper's make-up, and covering any assignment that he may receive. Work on the actual putting out of the "Daily" commences at about seven-fifteen in the evening, at which hour the night's staff will begin editing the paper under the Night Editor. The copyman usually takes the last copy down to the printer around midnight, when the office is closed until the next noon.

College journalism is a vast help in the professional field, any students intending to follow up this calling upon graduation would be well advised to gain some experience on their university news-sheet as a preliminary to their intended vocation. In addition to the foregoing, it will be found that "Daily" work has a peculiar fascination, and is a means of gaining touch with practically every Campus activity.

One day at Mrs. Kinglake's, the mother of the historian, there was a good deal of discussion over the case of a clergyman of the Established Church who had refused to read the burial service over a Nonconformist. Sydney Smith was present, and some one turned to him and asked whether if he had been in the clergyman's place he would have behaved like him. "On the contrary," he replied, "I should be only too glad to bury them all."

The sun was shining outside, and Tommy was tired of the arithmetic lesson. He stood before the master, waiting to be told that he could go. "Your last problem is wrong," said the master. "You must stay." Tommy glanced at the clock. "How much am I out sir?" he asked.

"Fiveness," was the reply. Tommy put his hand in his pocket, and produced fiveness. "I'm in an awful hurry, sir," he said; "do you mind if I pay the difference?"

I ask you what you would do With a girl That said You could kiss her If you caught her When she wasn't looking And then sat there All evening With her eyes closed.

"I don't see how a man can put a nasty old pipe in his mouth," exclaimed the demure young co-ed—and then stooped over and caressed her bull-dog.

INDOOR BASEBALL TO START SOON

Representatives Should be Elected

Although indoor baseball is classed as a minor sport at McGill, it is a minor sport in name only. The baseball Club can boast not only of the largest membership of any club at McGill, but also it is the only club to carry on its activities from the commencement of the college year to the end.

Two years ago this popular sport was recognized by the Athletic Association for the first time, and since that date the club has won the Championship of the City and District Indoor Baseball League twice. This year, with the same fine support from the Athletic Association and the Department of Physical Education already assured, the club expects to reach new heights and smash all records.

To the old students who are returning this fall, no urging is necessary for them to join the club, they already know the advantages it offers, and they will be out in large numbers, but from the men who are coming to the college for the first time many will be needed to fill up the gaps left by those who have graduated. At the commencement of the year and at the same time as the election of their class officers, the freshmen years should also elect their baseball representative, so that he will be able to attend the first general meeting of the club, which will take place in the near future, and enter his class in the Inter-Class League. Last year the Inter-Class League comprised eighteen teams, and a schedule of thirty-three games was placed. This year it is the intention of the club to run a larger league with a corresponding increase in the number of games, and with the whole-hearted support of the student body this should be a banner year for baseball at old McGill.

Are you going to see Old McGill battle Toronto in Toronto this Saturday? A special rate of $15.55 return has been secured providing one hundred or more make the trip. These tickets are good over the week-end. If you intend going, call at the Secretary's office, McGill Union, immediately, and get further particulars.

SCHOOL PRACTICE FOR FIRST LINE DIVIDED

School practice in connection with the Department of Education has this year for the first time been divided, so that three weeks of the required time were completed in September. Students of fourth year Arts returned to college early in September, and did practice teaching from Sept. 11th till Sept. 29th, under the supervision of Dean Laird, Dean of the School of Teachers, Macdonald College, and Professor of Education. The required time will be completed in the spring, after the sessional exams.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION COMPULSORY IN R.V.C.

By regulation of the Faculties and Corporation, physical instruction is now a requirement for women students in all Faculties. Beginning with Session 1922-23, all women students of the first and second years in Law, Medicine and Music will be required to attend two hours of physical exercise each week in the Department. Physical Education for Women Students will be carried on in the Royal Victoria College Gymnasium.

The Department of Physical Education is in charge of all physical activities carried on by the University. McGill, the University of Saskatchewan, at Saskatoon, and the University at Edmonton, are the only universities of Canada which have compulsory physical education for all students.

A little girl of seven was out having tea with a friend when a lady visitor called and took some notice of her. "And have you any little sister at home?" the lady asked. "No," answered the child; and after a moment added thoughtfully, "but I have two brothers at home—and they have a sister—and I'm it."

ORPHEUM

For a good laugh at the end of a trying day, the presentation at the Orpheum this week can be most heartily recommended. The Famous Robins Players appear in the three-act comedy "Keep It To Yourself"—and "comedy" is a mild way indeed of describing the farce which is unfolded. From the first appearance of "Charlie" till the final curtain, the audience laughs and laughs uproariously.

The play opens in the bridal suite of the Hotel Splendide in Ostend at ten o'clock in the evening. Edouard Chamet, the well-to-do proprietor of the Deauville Hotel, is occupying the suite, and throws his friend Benjamin into panic by his great susceptibility to hypnotic influence. In this opening part of the act, the text seems a little weak, and the effect was not as great, nor as smoothly finished as the great part of the play. Dr. Dubois hypnotises M. Chamet and guarantees that he will rest well that night in the bed in the bridal suite. Then a bridal couple arrive, and are given the suite by the kindness of M. Chamet, who very seriously complicates matters by attempting, while in a trance, to obey the instructions given him previously to sleep in the bed in the bridal suite. A jealous bridegroom, a panic-stricken bride, the reappearance of the doctor; Charlie, the waiter's continued forgetfulness, and M. Chamet remaining in his trance, all create such a humorously complicated situation that the sourest disposition cannot but respond with the heartiest laugh. The uproar of laughter by the audience is a marked tribute to the clever situation which is so ably worked up by the players.

In the second act at Deauville, the situation is further complicated by the injection of new characters, and the visit of the bridal couple to the bridegroom's old friend, M. Chamet! Madame Chamet is a most charming hostess, distracted somewhat by the peculiar spells of illness of her husband. Of course, the final act extricates M. Chamet from his troubles, but not before he has undergone most painful experiences.

Edward Robins portrays M. Chamet in a most realistic style, and brings out the humorous situations in natural unaffected style. Reina Carruthers and Jean McVilvie take their parts excellently. As a villain, Lyle Evans looks his part, but has a laugh rather inclined to be "staged" at times. Eugene Shakespeare is very pleasing. The Players are to be complimented on the long and appreciative laugh which the play evokes from the middle of the first scene till the end.

Anyone who feels the need of the relaxation afforded by an evening happily spent may be assured that the Robins Players are presenting just such entertainment as will benefit them to the fullest degree.

MCGILL MUSICIANS TO ORGANIZE BAND

The Students' Council has appointed C. F. Fraser to be temporarily in charge of the Musical Organizations of the University, pending the appointment of permanent officers later on. A meeting will be called shortly for any men who have played in the college band or can play any instrument that would be suitable in a band, are asked to communicate with C. F. Fraser as soon as possible, so that the organization can be properly started as soon as the men can be gathered together.

MCGILL C.O.T.C. TO THE FORE AS IN PAST

Fine Success of Last Year's Contingent

GREAT ACTIVITY

Recruits Are Being Received For Present Session

The McGill Contingent of the Canadian Officers Training Corps has been recruiting for the last week, and a large number of very good men have signed on for the next year's work.

For the benefit of those who are new to the University, and who have not yet heard of the work of this unit, the following outline is given:

The Officers' Training Corps is a portion of the Non-Permanent Active Militia of Canada, which is established in the universities for the training of officers for that body. It provides courses of instruction in the examination subjects for the War Office Certificates "A" and "B." Certificate "A" carries with it qualification for commission as a lieutenant in the Non-Permanent Active Militia of Canada or the territorial force of Great Britain, it also entitles the holder to certain privileges on obtaining a commission in the regular forces, either of Canada or of Great Britain. Certificate "B" carries with it qualification for the rank of captain in the above forces.

During the last session, the following obtained certificates:

Certificate "B" (Captain's)

A. A. Pickford
H. A. Delcellier
W. J. S. Dormer
R. Lancot
F. S. Lawrence
A. L. Patterson
I. S. G. Shotwell.

Out of a total of nine successful candidates from Canada, the above seven were from the McGill Contingent.

The following were successful in the Certificate "A" examinations:

We. E. Bailey
J. L. Balleney
H. W. Boyd
C. F. Horwood
D. MacRae
A. E. Manville
D. D. McGown
B. B. Shier
D. T. Law
D. Boyd.

C.O.T.C. training is available at no cost whatever to themselves, to all members of the University who are physically fit.

The Orderly Room is open daily between the hours of 5 and 6 p.m. for Recruiting.

Irate Frosh—Say, how long've I got to wait for a shave?

Barber Jane—Bout three years, sonny.

Adviser: "Do you wish to be matriculated?"

Freshman: "No, I have been;—in the arm, but it didn't take."

He was the keenest student in the class, and when an unpopular professor said: "Gentlemen, your next subject for composition will be 'Manners,'" he at once rose and asked: "Can we write on bad manners sir?"

The professor looked over his spectacles at the all-conquering youth, and quietly answered: "Certainly; you can write about whatever you are best acquainted with."

An American tourist in Scotland took a great fancy to a handsome collic he saw and offered to buy it. The owner asked some questions and on learning that it was the would-be purchaser's intention to take Jock to America, he refused to part with the dog. Just then an English tourist came along and he also made a bid for the collic, which although less than the first offer, was finally accepted. The American was annoyed, and when the Englishman had departed he said, "You told me you wouldn't sell your dog." "Na, na," replied the canny Scot. "I said I couldn't part wi' him. Jock'll be back in a day or two, never fear. But he couldn't swim the Atlantic."

The principal of a certain school prided himself on the speed with which his pupils went through the fire drill. When he asked them, "What would you children do if I told you there was a fire in the building?" the answer he had taught them rolled with astonishing glibness from their tongues. One day Dr. Henry van Dyke was to lecture to the pupils. In introducing him the principal asked, "Now, children, what would you do if I told you that Dr. Henry van Dyke was to lecture here to-day?"

And three hundred voices responded in sing song, "We would rise promptly put away our books and then quietly and without disorder, but as quickly as possible, file out to the street."

HARRIER MEET TO BE HELD AT MCGILL

Intercollegiate on Nov. 4th—
Interfaculty Oct. 23rd

GOOD MATERIAL

Run This Afternoon From
Stadium at 5 P.M.

From the appearance of new material turning out at the Stadium with the endurance runners, it is evident that McGill has a successful year ahead and will be well represented when the various meets are held here at the end of October and early in November. The fact that there are many Freshmen turning out for the first time is a good sign, and should encourage others to visit the track and offer their contribution, no matter how modest they may feel as to their running abilities.

This afternoon there will be a short run at the stadium. At 5 o'clock, the most suitable hour for the majority, runners will meet at Molson Hall, and from there will go to the track. Students are also reminded that the track is open all day for their benefit.

The possibility of McGill making a good showing when the Intercollegiate Harrier meet is held in Montreal on Saturday morning, November 4th, is promising. There is, however, just the right amount of time for her athletes to get into condition. Already Phil Gross has been showing good form. Coop Antliff, who figured well, in past track meets, has been out; Wiggins, McGill's best three mile runner, promises to repeat his performances, while Alexander and Smith are showing improvement. Bishop, who ran in the C.P.R.A.A.A. race last year, is offering a suggestion to the best runners. Although Legg and Hamilton and Gordie Stephens are not concentrating on track activities yet, their support is assured of later on.

At a meeting of the executive held last night, it was decided to send a team of five men to compete with an American university during the week of October 25-November 1st, if it can be successfully arranged and the Students' Council grant their permission. The date of the Interfaculty meet was set for October 23rd, while Phil Gros, the newly appointed manager of the club, will be in charge of all runs. He plans next week to offer an interesting programme, such as will meet with the approval of all new-comers and members of last year's "pack."

GOOD ENGLISH

The Chicago Daily News makes a remarkable graphic editorial announcement of its publication of the German ex-Kaiser's Own Story of the War. It is an unusually fine literary performance. Here it is:

The ex-Kaiser's Own Story.

"The sacrifice was in vain"—Thus the ex-Kaiser of Germany in his amazing autobiography sums up the results of his abdication.

That is only one of the innumerable sententious judgements passed upon great events, upon appointed rulers, powerful statesmen and military commanders by the leading participants in political affairs of Europe for a period of thirty crowded years.

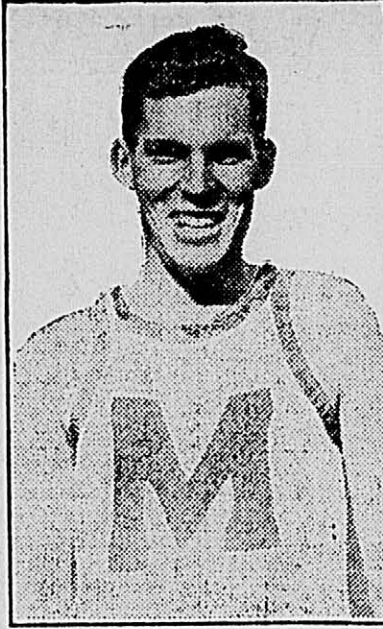

Not since Napoleon, exiled on St. Helena, dictated his autobiography has there been written a story of a career that can compare in importance with the story told by the ex-emperor now in exile at Doorn. As a historic narrative it is of absorbing interest. Yet, like Napoleon's, it is replete with extraordinary mis-statements and weird misconceptions. It is, indeed, a piece of self-revelation that must make it a fascinating study for students of the mentality of men who have exercised large authority.

Here for the first time the world is given an adequate opportunity to discover the mental processes, the dominating opinions and the accepted moral guides to action that made William of Germany the overshadowing figure in European affairs during three spacious decades filled with significant events.

What did William think of Bismarck, his imperial grandfather's iron chancellor, whose services he so soon dispensed with after he succeeded to the royal and imperial thrones of the Hohenzollerns? William tells you at the beginning of his memoirs. And starting at that turning point in the life of a great and virile nation, he proceeds to relate his version of the developments that slowly but implacably divided Europe into two powerful armed camps and so prepared it for the day when the nations, so aligned, suddenly grappled in a titanic war.

The recital gives in a long succession of lightninglike flashes the vivid pictures of the crowned war lord who at a great moment of crisis spoke the fateful word that set his perfectly appointed armies marching against Russia and against France. To read this recital covering the years of his rule is to watch the ten-

BETTER QUARTERS FOR PHYSICAL EDS.

Hostel Now On University
Street—News of the Department

This session finds the resident students of the Department of Physical Education in new and better quarters, the hostel being now located at 724 University Street. This house belongs to the University, and was during the past summer converted into a hostel to accommodate some twenty students of Physical Education, and in the Graduate School for Nurses. Miss Snielle is a graduate of Johns Hopkins, and holds a diploma from Scientific College. During the war she was Matron of Moore Barracks Hospital, Folkestone, and assistant to the Matron-in-Chief of the Canadian Army Nurses. The hostel is under the supervision of Miss Hurlbolt, Miss Snielle being Tutor in Residence.

Miss Ethel Wain, a graduate of the M.S.P.E., who was recently on the staff of the Montreal High School, has been appointed Assistant Physical Director of Women. This summer she spent in Denmark, attending Herr Junker Institute.

Miss Gladys MacCallum has also been appointed Assistant Physical Director of Women. She is a graduate of the M.S.P.E., was formerly on the staff of the Montreal High School and has lately been doing physical education work under the Y.W.C.A. in Bombay, India.

Miss Christie is returning as musician for the women's classes in physical education.

tion grow and grow until that word was spoken. Thus is gained an intimate picture of the mentality of the ruler who precipitated the conflict that involved the whole world in its perils and losses and that ended in his own abdication and flight.

The story of that abdication as told by William constitutes a narrative of peculiar interest. The most powerful of the rulers of earth is seen standing dumfounded, abashed, alone, as if without a friend. The hesitations, the sudden rages, the crushing disillusionment of the imperial sacrifice, sternly warned by his chancellor to stay away from his armies, to stay away from the country over which he had ruled so many years, an Ishmael invited to flee for his life before the irresistible advance of his enemies—here is an ironic picture not easily matched in the pages of history, though defeated and fugitive monarchs are plentiful in those pages.

Why did this deposed war lord, fallen like Lucifer, driven by his foes, rejected by his people, fail to commit suicide? William solemnly sets forth his reasons for choosing to remain alive. And then he goes on to tell what he thinks of the peace and of the present plight of Germany and he gives his views of Woodrow Wilson and the fourteen points and of the American people. He tells, in short, practically everything that you want to have him tell you. Some of his judgements are keen and sure. Some of them are bizarre. Some of them are ludicrous.

It is a most revealing story. Its hero is William the ex-Great. Yet all its unique chapters, all its sketches of the characters and the motives of men in places of power all its grandiose recitals of things achieved or attempted, recall Shakespeare's lines: "Gor God's sake, let us sit upon the ground And tell sad stories of the death of kings."

It is a sombre recession all the close of the day of kaisers and czars, of royal dukes and serene highnesses of every degree. It is in its revelation of pompous futility a convincing demonstration of the eternal rightness of democracy.—Purdue Exponent.

FRESHMAN-SOPH. MEET SATURDAY

Neither Class Seems to Have Advantage

The work on the track took on a faster appearance with the return of Hay. This versatile runner, who has done such remarkable work, is already in shape for the sprints. Wiggins is also back on the track and is running a faster three miles than a Red and White runner has done for some time. Hamilton was also running a longer distance today, and is returning to form.

The Freshman-Sophomore track meet is the next event on the track programme, and the winning of the meet is still a matter of doubt, owing to the fact that neither class has as yet made any effort to produce any material. The Freshmen are as yet unorganized, and have shown little interest in upholding the honour of their class. Everything, however, has been done to facilitate their turning out. Molson Hall is being used for a dressing room, and the location of the stadium is well known. The younger class have not won the meet in some time, but this year is their first real chance.

The sophomore class has the weakest track delegation that has appeared in some time. This may be due to the fact that they have not yet started out, but none of last year's men on the track team are in their second year, so that the yearlings have a crowd of average runners to compete with instead of a bunch of intercollegiate stars.

This meet is to be held this Saturday. Entry blanks are to be found at Molson Hall, and in the Union. It will be a close contest, and in all probability no records will be broken.

Today there will be practice at the usual time. Coach Van Wagner had a fair turnout yesterday, but he is still looking for more distance material.

TWO R.V.C. GRADS GET SCHOLARSHIPS

Miss Shatford Leaves to Study in France

Two of the R.V.C. graduates of '22, namely Miss Ruth Shatford and Miss Jean Henderson, have been at least partially rewarded for their past work in the university, for they have been honoured with a French government scholarship and a teaching fellowship, respectively.

In recognition of the efforts of McGill to advance the study of the French language on this continent, a scholarship for study in France, the value of which is 6,000 francs with an additional 1,000 francs for travelling expenses, was spontaneously offered by the government of the French Republic, and placed at the disposal of the principal, Gen. Sir Arthur Currie.

Miss Ruth Shatford, an honor graduate in French and English of the Class of '22, has been awarded the scholarship, and leaves on Tuesday on the Empress of France to pursue her studies.

Miss Jean Henderson, daughter of the late Dr. J. A. Henderson, and of Mrs. Henderson, Roslyn Avenue, has been appointed to the Philip Carpenter Teaching Fellowship of McGill University. She will assist Professor Willey in Zoology, in the Biological Department.

Miss Henderson, who is nineteen years of age, received her degree of B.A. at the McGill Convocation of last spring. She graduated with honors in chemistry and biology, with a first place in Zoology. In the Department of Physical Education, she was awarded the second Strathcona prize for physical exhibition.

Miss Henderson's father, the late Dr. J. A. Henderson, was Professor of Anatomy for a number of years at McGill University.

It was gala-day at Worstock, and among the many events was a "pea race." Each competitor had to produce two dozen peas and place them in his boots before a committee of umpires.

At the appointed time the race began, and away hobbled the men. One old fellow, however, did not seem to be affected by the tortures which the peas inflicted on the others, and he walked past the winning-post far ahead of the rest.

On being complimented by a friend and asked how he had managed to beat so many younger men, he replied:—

"Well, you see, I took the precaution 'Well, you see, I took the precaution to boil them peas!'"
